sym·po·si·um/sim'pōzēəm (noun)

In ancient Greece and Rome: A convivial meeting, usually following a dinner, for drinking and intellectual conversation.

Plato – 4th century BC: A philosophical dialogue dealing with ideal love and the vision of absolute beauty al·li·ance (noun)

a relationship based on an affinity in interests, nature, or qualities.

The 3rd Annual RS/C Symposium is an opportunity for mid-career and advanced infant mental health practitioners to deepen their understanding of reflective supervision/consultation through short presentations by invited speakers, the experience of observing reflective supervision sessions, and small group-guided reflection and discussion on the larger group experience.

Symposium attendees will get the most out of the event if they have already received RS/C training and have experience providing and/or receiving RS/C. The event is also an opportunity for the Alliance to recognize the work of leaders in the field and to bring research and new horizons to our attention through invited speakers, networking opportunities, and discussions. We invite all experienced reflective practitioners to register to attend this premier event.

There is space for a maximum of 150 people to attend the Symposium on the beautiful campus of the Colorado School of Mines in the historic town of Golden (15 miles west of Denver). Registration ($400) includes event programming, and on-campus housing and meals. Registration details will be distributed beginning in early April 2018 to Alliance state members. As the host Alliance state, Colorado will receive at least 1/3 of the attendance slots when registration opens. We encourage Alliance state leaders to begin to identify 2 representatives to attend on their behalf. Remaining attendance slots will then be made available to all Alliance member associations.
